Bence Kaselyák, CTFL

Dear Kaselyák:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the American Software Testing Qualifications Board it is my pleasure to inform you that you have successfully completed the International Software Testing Qualifications Board Foundation Level certification examination.

The passing score is 65% and your score was 85.0% on the exam you took on March 27, 2025. Please note that the results are released only to you, and we are unable to discuss the exam, the questions, or other results.

The CTFL designation after your name stands for "Certified Tester Foundation Level." You are now entitled, and encouraged, to use this designation on your business cards, letterhead, etc.

Your certificate, suitable for framing, is attached.

To continue your skills development, build your career, and grow in prestige, we recommend that you look into all the certifications offered through ASTQB. See the software quality skills / career path and free resources at www.astqb.org.

Congratulations on your achievement and welcome to the prestigious group of ISTQB Certified Testers.

Sincerely,
